

Is counseling important within a learning institution?

The student life is getting complex day by day. Guidance and counselling is needed to help the students for optimum achievement and adequate adjustment in the varied life situations. Need analysis of the students in the schools shows the need for guidance and counselling services, in the education, career, profession, vocation, social/relationships, health, moral, personal and family/ marital areas.

The university college counselling needs a meaningful, realistic, practical frame of reference consistent with the institution's learning schedule.
